

This is National Newspaper week to remind you that the North American continent, Great Britain, and Western Europe are about the only areas on earth where the freedom to speak and write what you think is still unbridled.

And, like ham and eggs, there goes along with freedom of the press the right of private citizens to peaceably assemble. Without the one you don't have the other.

I'd be merely wasting words if I cited examples. They're all around us, arrayed against the democratic countries in Korea, and ever threatening in Eastern Europe. Our 20th Century is reminiscent of the Dark Ages — when feudal barons rode down the common people, tyranny stalked the earth, and all were afraid.

But if our democratic freedoms are worth the paper our Constitution is written on they will withstand hysteria at home as well as war abroad. This is a good time for all Americans to re-examine our constitution liberties, particularly the one that concerns what I am writing about today — freedom of the press.

A great Missourian, Senator Jim Reed, once defined freedom of the press as "the right to be wrong." It would have sounded flippant, perhaps, but for the fact that Jim Reed besides being one of America's all-time great orators was also an authority on law.

Bringing the issue quickly and pointedly home to our present perilous times I have only to quote the ruling handed down last week by U. S. Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson in the case of the 10 convicted Communists in New York City. Justice Jackson overruled the government's order that the defendants stay in jail pending their appeal — and set them free on bail.

Justice Jackson defended the convicted Red's privilege to write for the Communist paper the Daily Worker if they wanted to. He said:

"The very essence of constitutional freedom of the press and speech is to allow more liberty than the government would like. I think courts should not utilize their discretionary powers to coerce men to forego conduct as to which the Bill of Rights leaves them free."

The alternative to a free press is state censorship — and there is no such thing as a little censorship. On this point Justice Jackson said:

"Judge Cardozo (appointed to the Supreme Court by the late President Woodrow Wilson) wisely warned of 'the tendency of a principle to expand itself to the limit of its logic.'"

Does this defend the 10 convicted New York City Reds? Not at all.

The government has a case against them, but Justice Jackson rules out their writings in the Daily Worker as not being evidence.

Those 10 Reds have, of course "expanded to the limit of logic" our definition of freedom of the press.

But the only alternative is state censorship — and censorship "expanded to the limit of logic" would inevitably allow politicians to put all critical editors in jail.

This is the net meaning of the judicial remarks above quoted. The New York Reds are small potatoes compared to the whole structure of our American democracy.

More Judging at State Stock show

Little Rock, Oct. 3 — (P) — More judging was on tap as the Arkansas Livestock show, credited with creating a balance of the state's agriculture, entered its second day.

C. Hamilton Moses, president of the Arkansas Power and Light company and the Arkansas Economic Council-State Chamber of Commerce, declared last night.

"More than any other single state or citizenship movement, the Arkansas Livestock show has given impetus to a balance between agriculture and industry in Arkansas."

He added in an address at AP & L's annual banquet for livestock exhibitors that before the show was started in 1936 only a sixth of the state's farm income came from livestock, compared to a third now.

A 935-pound hereford calf owned by Norman Dean Woodruff, 18-year-old 4-H club member from Branch, Franklin county, was named grand champion steer in the show's initial judging yesterday. The steer is expected to bring the boy at least $1,000 at Saturday's auction of prize-winning stock.

Woodruff's entry might be considered a surprise entry. It won only reserve champion honors in the fourth district livestock show in Fort Smith a week ago.

An Angus owned by Doyle Maguire of Rt. 7, Fayetteville, was named reserve champion steer of the state show.

Second Ship Damaged by Mine

Washington, Oct. 3 — (P) — A second American destroyer has been damaged by a mine explosion off the coast of North Korea, the navy announced late yesterday.

It said the U. S. S. Mansfield struck a mine last Saturday and that seven men were injured. The incident was located 40 or 50 miles north of the 38th parallel and off the east coast of Korea.

Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, told the house armed services committee yesterday that "a great many" floating mines of Russian type have been found in Korean waters.

The navy had said earlier that the destroyer brush was damaged when it hit a mine in the area last Wednesday. The toll in that explosion, revised yesterday, was 11 dead, 10 injured and three missing.

Sherman, after alluding to the brush, said there had been mine damage to another vessel with "some fatalities." He testified before navy disclosure of the Mansfield incident, and the navy did not explain whether Sherman was speaking of that ship or whether a third had been involved.

The navy said the Mansfield, after emergency repairs, made port at Sasebo, Japan, as the brush had done.

Meanwhile, a navy spokesman said that "no evidence is in hand that any submarine or submersible was sunk or damaged by U. N. forces."

This was in reply to congressmen's questions about reports that a U. S. ship had sunk a submarine in Korean waters.

Wildlife Films to Be Shown Here Oct. 4

Tom Mull, Educational Director of Arkansas Game and Fish Commission, will present technicolor movies of Arkansas wildlife in a program arranged by the Hempstead County 4-H clubs and Extension Service, in the Hempstead Courtroom Wednesday night, October 4, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Mull's wildlife pictures include a technicolor film on the food, cover, and protection of the bobwhite quail in Arkansas and a technicolor film on Arkansas wildlife. Everyone interested in Arkansas wildlife is invited to attend the showing of these films which are presented at no charge.

Hempstead County 4-H club boys for the past few years have been taking part in wildlife management and in the protection of bicolor lespedeza plants for use in food production and cover for quail.

Wednesday a tour will be conducted to show activities of 4-H club members in game conservation. At 10:00 the farm of Walter Johnson, five miles north of DeAnn on the Marlbrook road, will be visited to study the program of Delbert Johnson a Blevins 4-H clubber.

At 2:00 in the afternoon the game management and plant production of Joe Burrell Smith and Macon Warren, 4-H clubbers in the Patmos School, will be at the Smith first stop will be at the Smith farm which is about three miles northeast of Patmos and from there the Warren farm will be visited.

Strike-Bound Plant's Rail Trestle Blasted

Malvern, Oct. 3 — (P) — A railroad trestle at the Acme Brick company's strike-troubled Perlman plant near here was wrecked by an explosion of unexplained origin last night.

Apparently believing the blast has been set, police searched the area surrounding the trestle, using bloodhounds.

Plant operations and freight service supplied to it by the Missouri Pacific railway have continued since about 250 United Brick and Clay Workers of America (CIO) struck in May.

The trestle — just outside the plant grounds — marked the spot where union trainmen stopped in a refusal to cross the strikers' picket lines. Railway officials took over and moved the trains into the plant grounds. They would return the trains to the outside and regular train crews would take over again.

Spring Hill Student Wins Essay Award

Miss Helen Atkins, Honorable mention winner in the Statewide Employ the Physically Handicapped Essay contest, has been awarded the Governor's Certificate of Merit. The award was presented Monday by J. T. Bowden Jr., who is in charge of selective placement of the handicapped for the local Arkansas Employment office.

Presentation of the certificate coincided with the opening of National Employ the Physically Handicapped week, which, by Presidential Proclamation is set each year for the first week in October. Miss Atkins, now a senior at Spring Hill High School, wrote and entered the essay in the 1950 contest. Mrs. J. T. Merritt is English instructor at the Spring Hill School.

Source material for the essay was distributed last spring to English instructors in several High Schools of the four county area served by the local employment office. In addition to such material, Miss Atkins used newspaper clippings and drew upon her own resourcefulness.

Miss Atkins, herself, is far from being a physically handicapped person. Last year she was a regular forward on the Spring Hill basketball team that went to the state tournament. She is interested in dramatics and as a hobby does needlework. Writing and reading complete her leisure time activities. She plans now to attend college next year and start preparation for a career as a physical training instructor.

Lepanto Is Scene of Terrapin Race

Lepanto, Oct. 3 — (P) — The race that may decide the nastiest terrapin in Arkansas will be reeled off here Wednesday.

Since there is no championship race set up for Arkansas, the winner of the annual American Legion Terrapin derby here usually is considered the title bearer.

About 750 terrapins are entered in the race, which highlights a full day's program of activity. This year's race is the 15th. to be Continued on page Two

Getting the News Out of Korea Was Big Headache to Foreign War Correspondents

By BILL ROSS
For Hal Boyle.

Seoul — (P) — The next time I cover a war like this one in Korea I intend to bring a large contingent of my own carrier pigeons.

If I can find a well armored and amphibious portable motor scooter that also will fly, I will bring one along too.

After weeks along the southern front and the Incheon-Seoul beachhead, I feel that these few war coverage essentials which no well equipped newsmen should be without.

The way communications have been most of the time, carrier pigeons would be an efficient method of sending dispatches back from the front for transmission to the United States.

The motor scooter would come in mighty handy in getting from one spot to another on the front. It could save a lot of wear and tear on hitchhiking thumbs — and on weary feet when the thumb doesn't perform effectively.

Many correspondents — and I am one of them — are getting a casualty rate among correspondents in jeep accidents as high as in the war.

Hours of flying are involved in getting news from the fighting front to a point where it can be sent to the United States. In the past week I have spent nearly 36 hours in the air.

"We are in flight so much that I'm going to see if I can get an air medal," one correspondent cracked.

Here is a typical day for a newsmen on the northern front: Because Kimpo airfield is the transport and communications hub of the Incheon-Seoul beach-

Arkansan Among 90 Prisoners Liberated

Tokyo, Oct. 3 (P) — Eighty American prisoners, liberated by advancing U. S. troops in South Korea, were flown to Tokyo today in four transport planes.

They arrived from southern Japan where the rescued men had rested several days after leaving Korea. Eight were sent to the Tokyo army hospital, 11 to the 155th station hospital in Yokohama and the others to the 128th hospital at Zama, about 20 miles from Yokohama.

Those liberated included: Cpl. Charles D. Newman, Springfield, Mo.; Sgt. First Class Allen H. Jamison, Fayetteville, Ark.; and Pfc. Frank P. Freede, Monett, Mo.

Reds Moving in From North in Korea Under Heavy U.S. Plane Fire

Texarkanian First to Cross 38th

By HAL BOYLE
With ROK Forces in Red Korea (P) — A tall young Texan had the honor of being the first American to cross into Red North Korea with troops from the Republic of Korea (ROK).

Capt. William R. Williams of 1923 Pecan street, Texarkana, Tex., drove over the parallel 38 border Sunday night behind the lead ROK soldiers.

His jeep flew two flags — those of the republic and of Nationalist China.

And the captain apologized to Texas for not having a Lone Star State flag along.

"They're a little hard to find this far north," he said.

Williams explained that one of his South Korean bodyguards had picked up the Chinese Nationalist flag and hoisted it on the jeep.

Williams is an American advisory officer with Lt. Col. Kim Jung Sun, commander of a regiment of the third ROK division that led the march across the frontier into the enemy's country.

The regiment stopped Saturday night at Chumunjin. This is a small port on the sea of Japan, coast about 12 miles south of 38, the line that for five years has divided 10,000,000 Koreans under Communist domination in the north from the 20,000,000 ruled by the U. N.-sponsored republic.

"We moved out Sunday morning at 5:30," Williams said. "Colonel Kim estimated we would reach 38 at noon. But we got there a little early and crossed at 11:45."

"The ROKs sent a platoon on ahead. It went more than a mile beyond the border and then ran into a fire-fight with some North Koreans. It was only small arms fire, machineguns and rifles, but the area is heavily fortified. So the platoon pulled back."

A reconnaissance patrol then went out and boldly cleared a network of wooden anti-air personnel mines. They blew off a leg if they stepped on them.

The withdrawing Reds had placed them around barbed wire guarding a chain of hill trenches, concrete bunkers and camouflaged pillboxes just north of the frontier.

Even a small stubborn enemy force in such strong fortifications might have delayed the advance for days. But the rearguard Reds had had enough. Most of them slipped away overnight.

"We attacked again in force at 5:30 Monday morning and met very little resistance — just a few isolated pockets," said Williams.

Within four hours the ROKs had entered and taken Yangyang, the first North Korean town in their path. It lies five miles north of 38 and the Reds had honeycombed its streets with sandbags and ditches. But they didn't stick to these ditches long either.

"We took the town with just a few rounds of fire — and we didn't pick up many prisoners," said Williams. "There hasn't been a mass surrender on this march."

Williams praised the endurance of ROK foot troops who have been advancing steadily for 15 days. Since jumping off from the Pohang port area Sept. 19 they have come about 275 miles. Williams said most of them made the journey on tennis shoes rather than trucks.

"One day they went 39 miles," he said. "I never saw anything like it."

Williams took a souvenir from the empty enemy command post in Yangyang. It was a photograph of about 70 newly graduated young North Korean army officers.

In the center of the group sat a big, unsmiling Russian in uniform.

St. Francis Levee District Election

Marion, Oct. 3 — (P) — A special St. Francis levee district election was held today to determine whether property owners approve a proposed $81,000,000 drainage project.

The project would set up a large pumping station near Whitehall, which, through a system of feeder culverts, would control the flow of flood waters in the eight-county district's backwater areas.

About 16,000 property owners were eligible to vote. In addition to deciding upon the project itself, they were to indicate whether they wanted the district to be the sponsoring agent.

The plan calls for all construction costs to be paid from federal funds. Property owners would be required to meet maintenance costs, which sponsors said would amount to about $125,000 annually — or about 10 cents an acre.

By RUSSELL BINNE

Tokyo, Oct. 3 — (P) — The Far East air force reported Allied warplanes pounded heavy traffic columns rolling southward today in Red Korea from Communist Manchuria border.

The reports came as South Koreans pierced nearly 50 miles northward into Red Korea on a drive aimed to carry all the way to the Manchuria frontier.

Then the South Korean penetration army commander conferred urgently with two top U. S. generals who flew to Koryo airfield, just south of the parallel 38 border on Korea's east coast, to meet him.

Pilots making the strike along the international highway to the North Korean capital of Pyongyang reported they destroyed 55 trucks and five other vehicles.

They claimed damage on 12 other trucks and a dozen other vehicles.

The increased traffic on the road from Antung, Manchuria, to Pyongyang was first noted at 5:30 p. m., Monday (2:30 a. m. CST), an air force spokesman said.

At midnight, B-26 Night Intruder planes failed to find any trace of the vehicle columns.

Fighter-bombers were sent to the area shortly after dawn Tuesday. The first flight failed to sight any traffic.

The Allied pilots flew lower and slower, and eventually found camouflaged trucks off the paved road.

The air spokesman said 35 of the 56 trucks reported destroyed were barged in the vicinity of the North Korean capital.

An air spokesman in Tokyo said the northernmost attack line along the highway was 30 miles south of the Manchurian border.

The officer refused to comment on where the southbound traffic might have originated. But air force pilots reported truck kills in Kwaksan, Anju, Stanaju, Yongyu, all along the battered highway.

Antung is 100 air miles northwest of Pyongyang and across the Yalu river separating Korea and China.

A Red column was reported late last month streaming down from Manchuria but air patrols were unable to find any trace of it later.

(The Pyongyang radio, in a broadcast of the Red Tuesday night war communique, failed again to mention the border crossing by South Koreans last Sunday.

The broadcast heard in San Francisco said the Reds had destroyed six Allied planes and four tanks. It contended there still was heavy fighting in the Seoul area.)

AP Correspondent Tom Lambert said American Marines Tuesday captured Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul.

At Koryo airfield near Kangnung, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Eighth army commander, and Maj. Gen. Earl E. Partridge, Fifth air force commander, talked with Maj. Gen. Kim Pak Il, commander of the South Korean first corps.

Tokyo, Oct. 3 — (P) — South Korean forces coasted to a depth of 35 miles or more inside Red North Korea today on a seaside drive toward Wonsan. That is the expected site of the next Red defense.

Red resistance at the outset of the South Koreans' push was reported light.

General MacArthur's headquarters broke its silence on the crossing of the parallel 38 border by the South Koreans Sunday. His Tuesday afternoon war summary said without elaboration that South Korean Third division troops had advanced to Tongcho.

Tongcho is a village 13 miles north of the border on the sea of Japan shore.

An allied 10th corps spokesman in Korea, however, said spearheads of the third division had moved beyond captured Kangsong against little opposition.

Kangsong is about 35 miles north of the border and within 60 road miles of Wonsan. This is the oil refinery port where Red prisoners have said the North Koreans are hastily massed troops for an all out defense stand.

Another South Korean division, the capital, had moved at least 15 miles north of 38 Tuesday morning. It was advancing on a road a few miles inland. MacArthur's Tuesday summary did not mention the Capital division as being North of the border.

Behind this all South Korean force of at least 30,000 troops, the republic's sixth division captured Chunchon, seven miles south of the border in the center of the peninsula. The sixth moved on north toward 38.

MacArthur spokesman said he did not know of any American forces with the South Koreans, who side Red Korea. He added, however, that he would not meet any Continued on page 2

Plan to Unity Korea Gaining UN Support

Lake Success, Oct. 3 — (P) — Eight-nation plan to unify Korea under U. N. auspices gained support from Australia today as sentiment against a Russian-backed plan to stop U. N. forces on their tracks.

Australia, along with Britain and others, is a sponsor of the nation plan.

Blunt-spoken Percy Spender, Australian minister for external affairs, was expected to say today that MacArthur's troops should be allowed to go clear to the border in carrying out a program against the "Koreans."

Most of the support for the plan only Philippines, said Minister Carlos F. Romulo has urged openly in the debates of the general assembly's national committee, the security council divisions gave little support to so act on the plan.

Canada's minister, Lester B. Pearson, complete support for the plan. He said the plan for a ceasefire now would be effect of stopping U. N. troops the 38th parallel or wherever are in Korea.

India was also on the speaking schedule. Frenchmen from New Delhi were expected to give the speech before the U. N. assembly.

Persons close to the mission said they expected to differ sharply with the Russians in Korea. He held out strict supervision of U. N. missions.

Soviet Foreign Minister A. Vishinsky, through a point Korea program late in the week yesterday after he rejected the elimination of the ready favored by a U. N. mission.

States to Share Defense Burden

Washington — (P) — federal government is sticking its view that states and localities must shoulder the main responsibility for civil defense against a possible enemy air attack.

This is being made clear in new federal defense orders. Federal defense authorities are having with James J. Worth, acting director of the security, Missouri, said.

Many states, officials tested that the federal role is not taking an active role in civil defense planning, furnishing of "measures" and warning devices.

He told civilian defense officials western states yesterday. "You cannot rely on federal government to do all with the tools you have."

"The federal government help you to the limit of resources in terms of today only. But the job is always everlastingly yours."

An order by President Truman establishing a Federal Civil defense administration has been drafted through out yet today.

Wadsworth arranged today with civil defense officials of states east of the Mississippi. This group, he said, rector, Leonard B. Blythe, Jersey, expressed concern about federal actions.

To Get Facts Regardless Says Prober

Washington, Oct. 3 — (AP)—Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) said today the senate crime investigating committee is letting the facts tell for themselves, without regard to political consequences.

That was his reply to Senator Brewster (R-Me.), who said he thinks the "disillusioning" disclosures by the committee are helping the Republicans in their fight to regain control of congress.

"We are trying to do an honest job and are not trying to help or hurt anyone except as the facts show," said Kefauver, who heads the special group set up by the senate to probe interstate crime and any corrupting influences.

The possible impact of the crime committee's work on the Nov. 7 congressional election was brought up by Brewster yesterday at a news conference.

Chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, Brewster said Republicans were "much encouraged" by recent developments in New York state. He said he meant Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's decision to seek re-election and the police graft scandal in New York City.

Kefauver said he thinks facts the committee has unearthed already show that criminal elements "don't have any political philosophy" but try to play both sides of the street depending upon which party is in power.

His committee is to begin closed sessions at Chicago on Thursday. Brewster had remarked that the closed hearings were "a rude jolt" from their (the Democrat) viewpoint, but Kefauver reported this was the customary procedure. He said it would be "very foolish" to have public sessions before the committee has gathered records and data.

Kefauver said about 100 witnesses have been placed under subpoena in connection with the Chicago investigation and that the group's investigators still are looking for "a good many witnesses."

In Chicago, committee aides said 25 witnesses have been served subpoenas. They declined to identify any, but it was learned that one is Tom Cawley, 55, operator of a plush gambling house in La Salle, about 100 miles southwest of Chicago.

Cawley told a reporter "This is not right. I never did anything. I don't like this at all. It is terrible."

Another witness placed under subpoena is Mrs. Virginia Hill Hauser, one-time friend of slain gambler Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel. Kefauver said "we think there are a good many points on which she might give us some information" but he said it probably will be some time before the committee gets around to her.

Sino Reds Have Reason to Be Worried

Hong Kong, Oct. 3 — (AP)—Why is Communist China apparently so worried about the 38th parallel in Korea?

Undoubtedly one reason is the Yalu river hydroelectric power grid built by the Japanese to supply Presumably, the Chinese Red Korea.

Now that South Korean troops have crossed 38 and the Communist regime of North Korea seems about to collapse, the Chinese Reds see possible interruption of power to their vital Manchurian industries.

Presumably the Chinese Red view is this:
If all Korea is unified under the United Nations the all-important Yalu river power dams will pass into hands considerably less friendly.

The fear of such a development could explain the many threats Chinese Communists have made to intervene in the Korean war—threats which appeared efforts to discourage U. N. forces from driving into North Korea.

Red China's Premier Chou En-lai said Sunday in a speech observing the first anniversary of the Communist government of China said serving the government of China that his country will not "supinely tolerate seeing their neighbors being savagely invaded by imperialists."

This is the background of the Japan-built power dams on the Yalu which forms the boundary between Manchuria and Korea.

After Japan's defeat in World War II these dams passed first to the Russians, then to the Korean Reds.

Later, when the Chinese Reds drove the Chinese Nationalists from Manchuria, the dams continued under the operation of the North Koreans.

As the Chinese Communists launched their big program of re-

DOROTHY DIX Philandering

Dear Miss Dix: I have read your column with interest for a long time and note that one of the most frequent problems brought to your attention is the philandering husband or wife. What is the cause of that type?

A READER
Answer: Disappointment in finding out that the men and women to whom they are married are not their physical and mental affinites does set many husbands and wives to roaming, but many other reasons besides that may be offered for married infidelity.

The greatest of these is vanity. Just sheer vanity. A woman is pretty. She has been much admired by the men. She has been flattered and courted and told how wonderful she is, and when she gets married and her husband reminds her of her faults, offense she prides her looks, and especially when all love-making ceases and her husband expects her to take his affection for granted, she cannot stand it.

Men Susceptible Too
Same way with a man. Before he was married he was a devil among the women. He, also, was accustomed to being flattered and coaxed and to seeing women's eyes grow brighter at his coming. Besides, he fancied his own technique in lovemaking and he finds that wasted on a wife, who would rather have him say it with bests than orchids and who interprets him when he goes into a sentimental act by reminding him that the grocery bill is overdue.

Another reason for the philanderers is that most home life is dull and drab, a routine of babies and bills and bottles that gets on the nerves of the men and women who cannot live without excitement. Then, of course, many men and women are philanderers because they are heart hungry. They are married to a cold and indifferent wives and husbands who give them no affection and it turns them into love thieves. They snatch at the love for which they are perishing as a starving person does at food.

And there are many men and women who philander because they have no emotional depths themselves. They are incapable of a great love or of being faithful to one woman or man. They only play at love. All they enjoy is the love chase and when that is over and their objective is won the affair is finished so far as they are concerned. The thrill is all gone and they pass on to someone who is new and unwon.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Will you tell me how to make friends and keep them?
E. H. H.
Answer: When you meet people whom you would like to have for friends you must make a gesture of friendship toward them, show them that you like them, that you admire them, and that you would like to see more of them. Then cultivate their friendship by showing them attentions, by going to see them and inviting them to see you, and doing anything you can to please them. Don't be standoffish. Don't expect other people to make the advances and run after you.

To keep friends requires tact, self-sacrifice and generosity. You must respect your friends' keep-off-the-grass signs and avoid trampling over their pet prejudices. You must not try to impose your opinions and beliefs upon them. Many people alienate their friends by feeling free to criticize them and to tell them what they should do or should not do. Regard friendship as a gift that has been bestowed upon you, rather than as a graft.

You have to work at friendship. You have to keep the fires stoked. You must hold out a helping hand to them in their troubles and give them the glad hand when they rejoice. You must send letters of condolence and notes of congratulation, for they are not mind readers and cannot know that you are sympathizing with them if they never hear from you. You must go to see the sick and the afflicted and show them by your affection and sympathy that you are really a friend.

It is not easy either to win friendship or to hold it, but it is worth whatever price it costs.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a girl of 18 very much in love with a boy of 19. He insists that if I really love him I must prove it by living with him without being married. Does this show that he loves me and that he will love me better if I do it, or will he think less of me? WONDERING.

Answer: No, he doesn't love you. Get that into your silly little head. A boy who loves a girl wants to protect her, to shield her, to save her even from herself. He doesn't want to drag her down or degrade her. The argument this boy is using to persuade you to do something that you know to be wrong is the one that every seducer has used since time began.

PRESCOTT NEWS

Kiwanians Sponsor March of Dimes
The Prescott Kiwanis Club voted unanimously in their meeting last Thursday night to sponsor the annual drive for the polio foundation, the "March of Dimes". Mr. Mark Justiss has been named chairman to succeed Mrs. N. N. Daniel who had charge of the successful campaign last year.

The club will go in a body to Roston Thursday night October 5, in a Good-Will Tour. The men will leave in a body in a chartered bus at 8:15 p. m. from the bus station. They will postpone the Kiwanis Queen night until October 12th.

Man's Attend Shindig
The "Shindig" held Saturday Night at the Legion hut, honoring Kay King, Nevada county Fair Queen, and Margaret Hunter Scott, Rodeo Queen, and sponsored by the F. S. A. Sorority. It was attended by both old and young folks. All sorts of games were played followed by square dancing and group singing. Hot Dogs with chili, and cold drinks were served.

Those from Prescott who attended the Presbyterian Group conference at Hot Springs, Sept. 26th were: Mrs. T. F. Logan, Mrs. T. M. Bemis, Mrs. William Norton, Mrs. O. R. Peachy, Mrs. W. G. Bensberg, and Mrs. S. O. Logan.

Mr. T. E. Logan, and Rev. W. G. Bensberg Attend the Presbyterian Synod of Ark. at Fort Smith Sept. 26-27.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Limmerhirt and children Kathryn Sue and Leroy of Texarkana were visitors in Prescott Sunday.

Mrs. Mrs. Dennis Walker and children of Magnolia were guests over the week-end of Mrs. Walker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Neimeyer.

Miss Dorothy Ann Gee of Dallas Texas, arrived home Saturday night and is the guest this week of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gee Sr.

Mrs. Bobby Duke and little son Reed of Odessa, Texas, are the guests this week of Mrs. Duke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bemis.

Mrs. Henry Lane, of Odessa, Texas, and Mrs. Jim Bush of Little Rock were Saturday night and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Karl King Jr.

In the overall picture, Red China would seem to have little to gain by involving herself in the Korean war.

Tax Court Approves Five Percenters

Washington, Oct. 3 (AP)—The United States tax court gave conditional approval today to the practice of hiring "five percenters" to obtain defense production contracts.

Manufacturers can deduct the fees they pay such contract-getting agents from their income tax as "ordinary and necessary business expenses" if the agents don't use "undue influence" on government officials, the court ruled.

Specifically, the court said the Aetna-Standard Engineering Company of Youngstown, O., properly deducted $59,496 paid in commissions over a 17-month period to a Washington, D. C., firm which helped it get wartime contracts to build gun carriages for the army.

Rejecting arguments if the internal revenue bureau that the claim should not be allowed, the court held that the Washington firm, Milburn and Brady, Inc., did not use "personal influence with any government representative to obtain the contracts which gave rise to its compensation."

A senate investigating committee last year inquired at length into the activities of five percenters, so named because they often charge a five per cent fee for help in obtaining government contracts. Milburn and Brady did not figure in the investigation.

The tax court in the Aetna-Standard case brushed aside evidence that members of the Washington firm were "personally acquainted" with army and navy officers or were related to a navy procurement officer. It said:
"The use of a manufacturer's representative to give assistance in soliciting business is a common practice among business concerns dealing with the government."
"And (Aetna-Standard) was under no obligation to use the services of a manufacturer's representative who was unfriendly with the government officials with whom he had to deal. x x x"

The commissions paid x x x for the many services performed by Milburn and Brady, Inc., were ordinary and necessary business expenses, and their deduction is not against public policy."

TO ANSWER INDIVIDUAL NEEDS...

Kotex comes in 3 absorbencies for different women, different days

These three absorbencies (3 sizes) allow you to select what's best for you. For instance, you may find Regular Kotex answers your needs completely. Or, if you prefer a slightly narrower napkin, you'll want Junior Kotex. Many women discover it gives just the right absorbency; fits more comfortably. And for more-than-average requirements, there's the extra absorbency of Super Kotex. Try all 3. You can vary the absorbencies according to each day's needs.

More women choose KOTEX than all other sanitary napkins

TM. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

Super Kotex in the Brown Box—extra absorbency for more-than-average needs.

Junior Kotex in the Green Box—for women who prefer a slightly narrower napkin.

Regular Kotex in the Blue Box—perfectly suited to the needs of most women.
